ST. THOMAS SCHOOL BOARD ELECTION.

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF ST. THOMAS AND EXWICK.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

PLEASE accept our sincere thanks for the honour you have done us in electing us members of the new School Board.

We are very sensible of this token of your confidence, and will endeavour to the best of our ability faithfully to discharge the duties of the office.

We have the honour to be,

Your obedient Servants,

CHAS. D. BLAKISTON.
JOHN STOCKER.
C. H. WILLIAMS.
HY. A. WILLEY.

DEVON COUNTY COUNCIL.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE HEAVITREE DIVISION.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

THE period for which you did me the honour of electing me as your Representative on the County Council having expired, I beg to thank you most sincerely for the confidence which you have reposed in me during that time, and I now offer myself for re-election.

If it is your pleasure that I should still continue to represent you, I will endeavour to carry out the duties of the office to the best of my ability, and with every regard to the interests of this Division.

Yours faithfully,

ROBERT N. G. BAKER.

Heavitree, 17th February, 1892.

DEVON COUNTY COUNCIL.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CREDITON DIVISION.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

I BEG to thank you for the confidence you have reposed in me for the past three years, and to offer myself for re-election as your Representative in the County Council to be elected next March.

Should you do me the honour of again electing me, I will endeavour to the best of my ability to help carry out the work entrusted to the County Council, with a due regard to the particular interests of this Division.

I am sorry to say that I shall be unable to address you personally, as I should have wished to do, as my health is at present not good and my medical advisers recommend me to take a voyage.

Yours faithfully,

BENJAMIN CORNISH CLEAVE.

Newcombe's, Crediton, 12th February, 1892.

DEVON COUNTY COUNCIL.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE ALPHINGTON DIVISION.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

A F. D. FULFORD, Esq., has, I regret to say, signified his intention not to come forward for re-election on the Devon County Council, many influential ratepayers have earnestly requested me to offer myself for election as a member of that important Body.

Being always ready to do what little lies in my power for the good of my fellow ratepayers, I comply with this request, and assure you that if you confer on me the honour of election, my best endeavours shall be used to further your interests, and to support a wise and careful expenditure of the ratepayers' money with due regard to efficiency and economy.

I am of opinion that a great deal of money is being wasted under the head of Technical Education, and I should, if elected, oppose the levy of such heavy rates while the Council have excessive balances in their hands.

I have the honour to be,

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Your very obedient Servant,

JOSEPH ROBERTS

Trewman's Exeter Flying Post.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 20TH, 1892.

AMONG the subjects which occupied the attention of Parliament yesterday was one which deserves more than passing notice. We refer to the question of illiterate voters. Mr. WEBSTER brought the matter forward, and pointed out that at the present time a voter who cannot read or write has his ballot paper marked by the presiding officer in the presence of the agents of the candidates. This arrangement, of course, does away with the very thing for which the ballot was instituted—secrecy. The elector's opinion is made known, and, as a consequence, he is often made the victim of intimidation. We have before commented on the large number of illiterate voters in Ireland and the coercion they are subjected to at the hands of the priests, who by getting themselves appointed as agents of the candidates discover whether the unlearned elector has recorded his vote in accordance with the direction of his spiritual adviser. In Donegal there are 7,000 illiterates out of 18,000 voters, and in many other parts of Ireland a similar state of things prevails, though it is to be noted that in Ulster the proportion is nearly as low as in England and Scotland. We do not think the fact of so much illiteracy among the Irish electorate is taken sufficiently into account in connection with the demand for Home Rule. We are constantly being told that two-thirds of the Irish people are in favour of Home Rule, but in view of the fact that a very large proportion of that majority vote under the eye of the priests, it may well be questioned whether the greater portion of the electorate are in favour of the establishment of a Parliament in Dublin. We should like to see the matter further discussed, for its bearing on the verdict of the country is important.

Now that the Irish Local Government Bill has been fairly launched upon the stormy waters of politics, the critics are beginning to find that she is not altogether the unwatheiy craft that at the first launching she appeared to be. The Bill is an honest endeavour to redeem the promise made by the Government as far back as the last General Election, to give Ireland all the advantages of Local Government, while refusing the factitious demand for Home Rule. The Bill will for all practical purposes place Ireland on precisely the same footing as England and Scotland. It gives Ireland not only County Councils but Baronial Councils, corresponding to the District Councils which have been promised to England. It confers upon the Irish County Councils just the same administrative powers as the English County Councils possess. At present the English Councils have no legislative powers, and therefore there is no question of the Irish County Councils possessing them. The Irish, then, will possess in their County Councils vast powers of usefulness, and if they choose to accept the Bill, it will enable them to do just what they say they want to do—namely, to make the best of their country. It is true that there are certain restrictions placed on the powers of the County and Barony Councils in certain directions, but these restrictions are necessitated by the condition of Ireland, and it is imperative that whoever gives Local Government to Ireland must provide against the oppression of the minority by the majority, and the reckless expenditure of money by the poor electors out of the pockets of the rich. Exception may be taken to the cumbrous system to be employed in case of defalcation, but Mr. BALFOUR explained that he did not think the Local Government Board was the proper body to deal with such a case, and he has appointed a method of procedure very much on the lines of that used in an election petition. But whatever we may think of the details of the Bill we must agree that it is a bold, Statesman-like attempt to reconcile the difficulty of Local Government in Ireland with the democratic spirit which demands that Ireland shall have Local Government. Of course, if the House will not accept the Bill with the safeguards the Government have attached to it, then the Government must withdraw the Bill, and allow the country to decide whether they did or did not make an honest attempt to redeem their pledges to the majority of the people of Ireland, without abandoning their pledges to safeguard the interests of the minority.
