

ALL DAY AMID HER FLOWERS

All day amid her flowers. Shoopers of golden daffodils, filled her arms as she came across the field to greet...

It's come from morning till night. Miss Collett and her women helpers are never still. But there's no better life in the world, she says. "I hate being indoors. It makes me feel suffocated. In fact, I don't like packing in the house for long. It always makes me grumpy."

IN CELLAR COOL. Quenchwell is the oldest cottage in the parish, but its "family vault" (to quote Miss Collett) is of recent origin. I went to see the underground room that she and her students built.

THE COAT AGED. She took me into her lovely old cottage. Walls of astonishing thickness showed its age; here were flowers in every nook and cranny. And Miss Collett herself; she is the small adjoining kitchen.

As likely as not, you will find Miss Collett like at Quenchwell, Perranwell. Planned my companion. "Officially, we finish at five, but often it's much later. I'm afraid. And flowers open just the same on Sundays, so there's no rest day later in the year strawberries and raspberries keep her busy."

CORNISH FLOWERS FOR THE TABLE. CORNISH HOUSES ARE CHANGING THEIR ways with large decorations. No longer do they have the old-fashioned bouquets of flowers for their rooms.

CALL TO THE LAITY. Truro Diocese Movement. BISHOP SPEAKS AT SALTASH.

BISHOP OF TRURO (Dr. J. Hunkin) held his sixth decenary meeting in connection with the Forward Movement in the diocese, when parochial church councillors of the Rural Deanery of East Wiltshire assembled in Saltash Church Rooms last night.

WONDERFUL MAN. He had President Roosevelt, a wonderful man, who had said there was no problem but that would melt away before spiritual awakening.

TOMORROW. "ANN" will tell of the worldwide philatelic activities of a Devon woman.

CO-RESPONSIBILITY. Rev. W. F. O. Kirk (vicar of Stithians) stated there were certain convictions they must begin to work with—that all the people of the parish were redeemable and not a single one.

WEEK-END MEETINGS. Lady Astor's Engagements in Plymouth. Lord and Lady Astor are visiting Plymouth over the week-end.

CHILLON FARMER. Death of Former Rural Councillor. The death occurred at his home yesterday of Mr. John Edmund Dave, of Burn Hill, Chillton.

DOMESTIC SERVICE. Nothing Derogatory About It, Says Lord Mayor. "It is a great tragedy in the life of this country that large houses are being closed because of a verger of domestic servants to staff them," said the Lord Mayor.

Gunnislake Sports Gala. A joint meeting of the public ball club committee and the Gunnislake A.F.C. Management Committee, held at the club on Tuesday evening.

NEW CHURCH OPENED

Plymouth Service NOTABLE DAY FOR PRESBYTERIANS

Issue Of Prayers And Hopes

YESTERDAY was a great day for Presbyterians in Plymouth, for they saw the new church which they had built at Torr-lane officially opened.

THE SERVICE. According To Way Of Their Fathers. Rev. P. Ogilvie, Moderator of the Presbytery of Bristol, preached the sermon, and the first and second lessons were read respectively by Rev. M. McAra, Minister of the Church of St. John, and Rev. F. W. Anderson, minister of Muttley Group.

PASSENGER "DISFIGURED". Supt. S. F. Smith, outlining the case, said that the lorry driver, Payne, saw a car approach him, followed by other vehicles.

DEFENCE DIFFICULTY. Supt. Smith then remarked to the Bench: "In my opinion this defendant has not a single friend."

MEDICAL SKILL SAVED LIFE. "It was a triumph of medical skill coupled with the greatest of medical art that he was not killed," said the surgeon.

ORGAN REMOVAL. An Elder of the Heston Norris Presbyterian Church, Mr. J. E. Green, was appointed architect.
